

Linaria maroccana* Hook.f.

Family: Plantaginaceae

Common name: Moroccan toadflax

Importance:

- It's often grown for ornamental purposes in gardens in a variety of colors.
- It is also used to reduce swelling, relieve water retention by increasing urine production (as a diuretic) and causes sweating.
- People use it for curing digestive and urinary tract disorders.